ASSOCIATION OF RETIRED
CONSERVATION SERVICE
EMPLOYEES (ARCSE)

VISION

An active and engaged group of retirees who endeavor to stay connected with colleagues, the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service and other conservation partnership organizations.

MISSION

To provide effective and timely communications, networking opportunities and activities to keep retirees connected and informed so they can support efforts to protect and conserve our nation's natural resources.

ASSOCIATION OF RETIRED CONSERVATION SERVICE EMPLOYEES

ARCSE helps members stay in touch with each other and with the USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service and its activities. Members include NRCS/SCS retirees, current employees, and others interested in our mission.

CONSERVATION AND SERVICE ARE ALWAYS PART OF US

Connection → Communication → Community → Conservation

MEMBER BENEFITS

CONNECTION ARCSE provides a way for retirees to stay connected regardless of where you live. We keep you connected to NRCS and important issues, legislation and changes that affect our natural resources. These connections take place at events, and meetings and through emails and social media. We encourage you to stay in touch, make new friends and share your knowledge.

COMMUNICATION ARCSE provides informative and interesting information through bi-monthly newsletters, emails, Facebook posts, and meetings that happen face-to-face or through online platforms.

COMMUNITY Regardless of where you retired, ARCSE provides a sense of purpose and community in retirement. We encourage our members to stay active and share their knowledge and expertise with like-minded conservation groups as a mentor, trainer, speaker, board member, volunteer, etc.

CONSERVATION ties us together. Having a bond with like-minded conservationists provides another way to stay connected with others and make new friends in retirement. Your passion for conservation is something you can continue to enjoy at any level you choose in retirement.

ABOUT US

Since 1974, the Association of Retired Conservation Service Employees (ARCSE) has helped members to keep in touch with each other and with our colleagues at USDA's Natural Resources Conservation Service. We are a national organization that facilitates our members' continued commitment to the conservation and wise use of our precious natural resources.

Our members represent a wealth of institutional knowledge and expertise. We endeavor to pass this resource on to future generations of conservationists through mentoring, internships and programs.

We work closely with like-minded organizations to carry out mutually beneficial projects and to identify opportunities for members to continue taking part in activities that ensure well-trained conservationists and technically sound soil and water conservation for all land uses.

Our membership is organized by state chapters and is led and coordinated by an elected board that includes advisors.
