He remained in Lincoln several years before he moved to Arkansas. He was headquartered in downtown Lincoln at the time; O and 12 Streets. Andy had answered one of those advertisements out of Arkansas. Come and stay a few days on us - and listed to the spiel. He and Viola did listen to their story and started home. He said that they got about ten miles on their way when they decided that since they were there, they might as well buy a lot. They returned, bought a lot, found a contractor, selected a house plan and got things started. I enjoyed working with Andy over the years when I was in Kansas, Texas and South Dakota. It didn't matter if you had differing opinions or ideas, Andy was very pleasant to work with."

He completed a 25-year career as a Registered Land Surveyor with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service (SCS) for the Davis, Lindsay and Marlow Oklahoma Field Offices) and then he worked 10 years as a Personnel Relations Specialist at Fort Sill, Oklahoma. Bob also served in both the United States Army Reserves and Air Force Reserves. Bob was a charter member of the Oklahoma Society of Land Surveyors. Few know that he was recruited by the local SCS Field Office after their inquiry with Davis Schools for students who excelled in math. After observing his performance as a Land Surveyor, his superiors encouraged him to transfer to the state office in Stillwater so he could attend college and major in Engineering. Though he declined that opportunity, his superiors assigned their interns to work with him to gain practical experience as part of their Surveying and Engineering development program. After losing his father at the young age of five, he began helping support his mother during his early teens by working for local cattlemen in the Davis area. Through this work, he developed a deep and lasting passion for livestock, horses, and pasture management - knowledge that would somewhat shape the course of his life. Alongside his brother Tom, he built and maintained a successful livestock operation for nearly 20 years. Following Tom's passing in 1988, he continued the work they had started together, carrying on the operation for another two decades. Davenport	2004	Honorary Member and Senior Conservationist Herbert L. Davenport (92) passed away May 17, 2004. Herb served as an Area Engineer at several locations in Illinois prior to his retirement in July 1976. Owen Lee remembers Herb: "Herb was the Area Engineer in Carbondale, Illinois, and my first supervisor after graduating from the U of I in 1964. He had me help with a soil boring for a watershed structure that he was investigating. We drilled and drilled - put extension after extension on the auger and only stopped when the hole filled with wet material as fast as we pulled it out. We ended at about 25 feet deep. I did an investigation on a farm pond that was going to have a thirty foot fill, and needed State Geologist, Lou Pierard's approval. As Herb, Lou, and I drove to the site, Lou looked at my request and saw 3 soil borings. The one at the bottom of the creek was zero feet deep (solid rock), and the ones on each embankment were 6 inches deep. Lou asked why so shallow, and I replied there was a hard layer at that point. I know Herb was thinking why didn't I go back out there with Owen and get a repectable soil boring. Then Lou said "I'll show you how to get through that hard layer" An hour later, Lou ended with a 6 inch soil boring too. Herb and I took big sighs of relief. Herb worked very hard, was very detailed and thorough. He was a patient and wonderful supervisor."

She had a Bachelor of Arts degree from State University of New York, two Masters of Arts degrees and a Ph. From 1979 to 1989 she worked for the Office of US Foreign Disaster Assistance, Agency for International Development (AID) where she wrote and implemented workshops to teach independent living skills to people with disabilities living in Brasilia, Brazil. Partners then went on to use her workshop in eight other Latin American countries and awarded Dr. Decker the Program Development Award for her hard work and stunning contributions. In 1989 she began work with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service/Natural Resources Conservation Service, first working in the Human Resources Division. She then held several other positions at National headquarters including Customer Service Manager, Human Capital Manager, and Senior Policy Analyst. Her last eight years before her retirement in 2018 were as a Senior Legislative Analyst, in the Legislative Affairs Division where she prepared Chief's congressional testimony; responded to Congressional inquiries; trained congressional liaisons; briefed congressional members and staff. Leslie Deavers, current Chief of Staff for Associate Chief, worked with Denise in Legislative Affairs and remembers her this way: "She was the type of person who would take on any assignment and was always eager to learn new things and pitch in. Before heading home in the evenings, she would often pop in with her dog Wonder to say good evening and chat a little about life. Denise would always have some fascinating stories about world travels, her work in the community, educating children about seeing eye dogs, and other activities that highlighted her life experiences. Words do not adequately express my feelings of loss at her sudden passing. She was a gem; a marvelous woman who gave much to those around her."
Decker	2011	Honorary Member and Senior Conservationist George H. Decker (93) of Fairfax, Virginia passed away on December 7, 2011 at home. He was born December 10, 1917 in Fargo, North Dakota to the late Robert Earle and Hanna Decker. Robert was not present for the birth because he was serving in the Army in France during WWI. George lived in North Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin in his early years and graduated from high school in Sioux Falls, South Dakota before heading to the western side of the state where he earned a Civil Engineering degree from the South Dakota School of Mines in 1939. While in college, he joined the National Guard and upon graduation, he worked at a CCC camp in Sturgis, South Dakota for 18 months. His Army division mobilized on February 14, 1941 and they moved from Rapid City to Camp Claiborne in Louisiana. George attended Officer Candidate School at Ft. Belvoir in Washington, DC, where he met his future wife in the spring of 1942. After a duty station at Camp Rucker, Alabama, his unit was called to the west coast to prepare for deployment to the Pacific. In 2003, after a 60 year lapse, he renewed a romance with an Army nurse he had met at Camp Rucker and for the next 6 years, he had a long-distance "girlfriend", Helen Martin. When not traveling between Ohio and Virginia, they spent many days with a mid-afternoon "brew time" – a telephone call while George drank a beer and Helen enjoyed a glass of wine. Helen passed away in 2009, just before her 90th birthday. George is survived by his children, Mary (Dan) Dent, Joan (Charlie) Cooper, Bob (Mary Sue) Decker, George (Anne) Decker and Patti (Rick) Pfeiffer. From the time he was a boy, he seemed born to the outdoors. Nature wasn’t just a hobby to him – it was his calling and always gave him a sense of peace. Years later, he took that lifelong passion and built something lasting on the land that raised generations of Deytons before him…. Triggers, Traps and Trout. It wasn’t just a clever business name, but a reflection of a life lived close to the earth, and it became a haven for those who shared his love for shooting, hunting and fishing. Kenny’s survivors include his daughter, Missy Bullard (Mike) of North Myrtle Beach, South Carolina; three grandchildren, Camden, Ryker and Hawkins, otherwise known to their PaPa as “The Tribe”; lifetime friend and “buddy”, Harriet Vess McGinnis of Mars Hill; his loyal canine companion, Levi; his range buddies from Friday nights and fire-fighting buddies, as well as numerous cousins and too many friends to list.

Fox	2019	Honorary Lifetime Member and Senior Conservationist Roy Linwood Fox (97) of Salem, Oregon lost his battle with old age on March 8, 2019, eleven days before his 98th birthday. He was born in Winner, South Dakota, the third son of Luther Leroy and Lorena (Wilmoth) Fox. As a child, he barely survived a fire that burned down the family home. He was subsequently raised in the back room of the family plumbing business, and he graduated from Winner High School in 1939. Roy was smitten with a local girl, Avis Marlene DeBuhr, who made it clear his romantic overtures were unwelcome unless he earned a college degree. Accordingly, he enrolled in the South Dakota School of Mines and Technology, in Rapid City, and worked his way through school with a variety of interesting jobs such as cleaning the restrooms in a filling station in exchange for a room in the basement. After the Japanese attacked Pearl Harbor, Roy volunteered to enlist in the Navy, hoping his experience in the family business would allow him to enter the service above the lowest rank. He was surprised when the Navy enrolled him in an officer training program and told him to finish his civil engineering degree. He graduated in 1943 and shipped out for Guam after completing Midshipmen's School. Roy served as an engineer and officer in the 49th and 134th Naval Construction Battalions (Seabees) and spent most of the war building large aircraft hangers for the bombers flying missions to the Japanese mainland. He was discharged in 1946 and promptly married Avis in Madison, Wisconsin. He worked the following three decades in various engineering and management positions with the USDA Soil Conservation Service in Terry, Montana; Rock Springs, Wyoming; and Albany, Salem and Portland, Oregon. He retired in 1977 as the State Conservation Engineer, having designed and overseen the construction of dams and irrigation projects throughout Oregon. He also served as an officer in the US Naval Reserve until 1964, retiring as a Lieutenant. In 2018, Roy was honored to travel to Washington D.C. on a Journey of Heroes (for World War II veterans), sponsored by Wish of a Lifetime and the Vital Life Foundation. In addition to his professional accomplishments, Roy was a dedicated family man, faithfully married to Avis for 57 years. Roy and Avis were blessed with four children: Lana, Pamela, John, and Amy, along with nine grandchildren and six great-grandchildren. Roy was active in many organizations including the Episcopal Church, Toastmasters International, Association of NW Steelheaders, Federation of Fly Fishers, American Society of Civil Engineers, Masons, and Elks. In 1994 Roy and Avis relocated from Portland to South Salem to be closer to family. They spent many happy days together with their children and grandchildren. Following Avis' death in 2003 at age 80, Roy began volunteering in the computer room at the South Salem Senior Center. In 2017, due to declining health, Roy moved to the Oregon Veterans' Home in Lebanon where he made many new friends among the residents and staff. The family is grateful for the excellent care he received there. Roy was laid to rest with his beloved Avis in a private interment at Willamette National Cemetery on March 15, 2019. It is with a heavy heart that I am reporting that Lincoln "Linc" Gallacher passed away this morning (10/21/03). His work involved him in all aspects of SCS. Linc touched the lives of many SCS'ers and all benefited. One activity that he always had special liking for was dealing with those involved in construction and contracting. He spent uncounted hours teaching at training sessions for engineers and inspectors. We all considered him one of the best instructors. Shortly after retiring he became the Secretary-Treasurer for ARSCSE. His support and guidance led to ARSCSE becoming fiscally sound and reached its highest number of members." As a devout Mormon, he never drank but it didn't keep him from having a glass of water or something in his hand and participating in the frivolities. I recall of him telling of having had voice training that he might better call square dances and he occasionally used that mellow voice to amazed new, young employees."

Greene	2022	Charles “Charlie” Edward Greene (77) of Lincoln, Nebraska, passed away March 14, 2022. Charlie was the husband of Linda Greene, Public Affairs/Media Relations Specialist for the USDA-Natural Resources Conservation Service in Lincoln. Charles was born on March 21, 1944, in Pine Bluff, Arkansas to Bertha Johnson. He grew up in Seattle. His athletic ability stood out in high school where he played football and ran track. When in his junior year, he won the Washington state high school championship in the 100- yard dash and captured both the state titles in the 100 and 220 in his senior year. His triumph in the 100 at the Golden West Invitational in Sacramento, California helped him garner the accolade as the number 1 high school sprinter in the nation in 1963. Charlie accepted an athletic scholarship to the University of Nebraska and came to Lincoln in the fall of 1963. He quickly gained the attention of his fellow athletes during an intramural competition and pushed super-star Bob Hayes to a world record performance in the 60- yard dash in New York City at the Madison Square Garden’s indoor meet in January 1964. He missed out qualifying for the Tokyo Olympics at the US Olympic Trials after battling an injury but that served to motivate his competitive drive and determination to another level. Over the next three years, Greene became the nation’s leading collegiate sprinter capturing 3 consecutive NCAA titles in the 60-yard indoors from 1965 to 1967 and 3 consecutive NCAA titles in the 100-yard dash outdoors. He earned his degree in 1967 and after attending ROTC summer camp, returned to Lincoln to begin work on a graduate degree and continue to train for the 1968 Olympic Games with would be held in Mexico City that fall. At the 1968 AAU outdoor national championships, Charlie’s win in the 100- meter final capped off a remarkable evening of competition sports historians have referred to as “The Night of Speed”. Charlie earned two medals at the Mexico City Olympic Games that fall, garnering the bronze in the 100- meter final despite suffering an injury in the last 30 meters of the race. What seemed perhaps somewhat remarkable to some, was that only a couple of days later, Charlie would run the lead “leg” on the US men’s 4 x 100-meter relay. His team won gold and set a new world record. That sprint relay team (Charlie Greene, Mel Pender, Ronnie Ray Smith and Jimmie Hines) were trained and coached by the late great Stan Wright. Three members of that same team had qualified and competed against one another in the 100-meter final only days before. But as Charlie often liked to brag and share, his greatest achievement was in meeting his future wife, Linda Arnone, on a blind date in Mexico City. Linda, a Penn State graduate, was working on assignment for the Philadelphia Inquirer as a journalist. They married in Lincoln on January 18, 1969. Charlie’s career in the US Army would keep him busy over the next 20 years taking him to several different duty assignments and posts including West Berlin, South Korea, West Point, Fort Meade and Fort Lewis. After retiring from the US Army with the rank of Major, Charlie served as an executive for Special Olympics International and traveled around the world. In recent years, even after experiencing some challenging health setbacks, he continued to contribute his talents and expertise in helping to create and teach an OLLI (Osher Lifelong Learning Institute) course of study on the History and Impact of the Olympic Games. Charlie was inducted into the USA Track and Field Hall of Fame in 1992 as well as the US Olympic Hall of Fame and most recently the University of Nebraska Athletic Hall of Fame as part of its inaugural class of 2015.

Paul left the Illinois Institute of Aviation to join one of the very first Peace Corps groups in 1962 and served in Ghana. After doctoral studies took them to Costa Rica, they returned to the University of Michigan and used its library to divine that the best place in the world to live is The Driftless Area of southwestern Wisconsin. When the right farm became available in Winneshiek County in 1974, friends and family pitched in to help them make the down payment. Paul milked Jerseys, while Pat taught social work, taking a year off to manage Luther College's study-abroad program in Nottingham in 1981. While they coaxed from the land a variety of flora and fauna—Christmas trees, soybeans, sweet corn, grapes, apples, eggs, lambs, and trees (everywhere!)—when asked what they raised on the farm, Paul's reply was always "kids!" Paul became involved in politics and served three Iowa House terms where he led bipartisan support for groundbreaking sustainable agriculture and conservation legislation. Landmark achievements of Paul and his colleagues included the 1987 Groundwater Protection Act (including creation of the Leopold Center for Sustainable Agriculture at ISU); the 1989 Resource Enhancement and Protection (REAP) Act; and the 1990 Iowa Energy Act. That work gained national attention, resulting in Paul's 1988 invitation to join the National Academy of Sciences' Board on Agriculture and then to President Bill Clinton appointing him in 1994 to run the 13,000-employee Soil Conservation Service (SCS) in Washington, DC. He reinvigorated the agency's culture, thanked employees continually for serving the nation's farmers and ranchers, and appointed many women and minorities to positions of leadership. He worked with colleagues to rename the SCS the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) and reminded all that the agency's mission included the entire community: soil, water, air, plants, animals, and humans (SWAPA+H!). During his tenure, NRCS programs became more holistic, including the flagship Environmental Quality Incentives Program and the National Conservation Buffer Initiative. In the landmark publication "Geography of Hope," Paul called on Americans to understand the nation's working lands as the foundation of our economic and environmental health. After leaving the NRCS, Paul ran the Iowa Department of Natural Resources for Governor Vilsack in the early 2000s. After an unsuccessful run for the US House of Representatives in 2004, he retired to Decorah to share his experiences and networks by advising and mentoring environmental advocates and policymakers throughout the US, serving on various boards and commissions, giving inspiring speeches, writing book introductions and editorials, visiting his kids in Nicaragua, Sweden, France, China, and Australia, and watching his six granddaughters grow. In his later years he enjoyed weaving music into his essays for progressive Iowa "town hall" web site, Bleeding Heartland. Paul is survived by his wife, their three children—Eric (Brenda Horrigan) in Sydney, Australia, Andy (Emily Young) on the farm outside of Decorah, and Annika in Gothenburg, Sweden; six granddaughters: Alissa (New York) and Kiara (Carleton College); Helen (Vassar College), Leila, and Elsa (Decorah); and Linnea (Luther).

Kellogg	1980	Charles E. Kellogg passed away March 9, 1980. He was Deputy SCS Administrator Soils Division and was located in Washington, DC. Kellogg, Charles Edwin (2 Aug. 1902 - 9 Mar. 1980), soil scientist, was born near Ionia in Ionia County, Michigan, the son of Herbert Francis Kellogg, a farmer, and Eunice Irene Stocken Kellogg. Following graduation from Palo High School, Kellogg enrolled at Michigan State College, where he pursued studies in science and mathematics, and eventually specialized in the new field of soil science. At that time, Americans had begun to view soils as natural bodies, the creations of unique combinations of soil-forming factors. As a student, Kellogg participated in two major events in the utilization of soil data for planning. During the summers from 1923 through 1926, he did research and mapped soils for the land economic survey, an interdisciplinary project of the Michigan Department of Conservation. One objective of the survey was to help solve the problem of the cut-over lands, which had been logged by timber companies. The inefficient use of land vexed failing farmers and taxed the local economy and the state. Very early, Kellogg had learned to view soil properties in the context of their meaning to and interaction with the local society. He earned his bachelor of science degree in 1925 and remained at Michigan State College on a fellowship in soils, April 1926-April 1928, sponsored by the Michigan State Highway Department. Later he made a second contribution to the utilization of soils data. New concrete highways in some portions of Michigan had buckled. Kellogg made a study of the relationship between soil characteristics and the appropriate design for cement-concrete highways. The work led to definite procedures for highway construction in accordance with the soil conditions as assessed by detailed soil surveys. On December 25, 1925, Kellogg married Lucille Jeanette Reasoner; they had two children. From April 1928 until December 1929, Kellogg directed soil surveys and carried out research on soil genesis for the Wisconsin Geological and Natural History Survey. In 1930 Michigan State College of Agriculture and Applied Science awarded him a Ph.D. for his dissertation "Preliminary Study of the Profiles of the Principal Soil Types of Wisconsin." The study was in the new field of "pedology." In January 1930 Kellogg took an assistant professorship at the North Dakota Agricultural College, where he also was in charge of the soil survey program and land classification. He advised on the design of the soil survey of McKenzie County, North Dakota, so that it could be used in land classification for rural tax assessment. Once again, Kellogg made innovations in the area of what soil scientists would come to call "interpretations" of soil survey data for utilitarian purposes. His work in North Dakota brought him to the attention of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, whose soil scientists had responsibility for the soil survey, an activity that had started in 1899. In February 1934, Kellogg accepted a position specializing in land classification in the Bureau of Chemistry and Soils. On 1 July 1934 he became acting chief, Division of Soil Survey, and then chief of the division on 1 July 1935. For nearly thirty-seven years Kellogg directed the work of the soil survey division. He sought to make the published soil survey a more useful document for farmers and other users. Curtis F. Marbut, Kellogg's predecessor, had worked to establish the soil survey as a scientific document, but he generally eschewed including "interpretations." Interpretations assessed the suitability of soils for particular uses such as for crops, forests, grazing, or a host of nonagricultural uses. Kellogg believed that the soil scientists themselves should work with other technical specialties to develop the interpretations of the soil survey. The early years of Kellogg's leadership focused on tools to improve and advance the soil survey. He wrote the first edition of the Soil Survey Manual (1937) to give soil scientists more precise instructions, definitions, and procedures. In 1936 he had issued a USDA publication Development and Significance of the Great Soil Groups of the United States. That publication was used widely in college classes and gave a rather full discussion, in qualitative terms, of the five factors of soil formation. Kellogg wrote extensively in a clear lucid style. His most popular book, The Soils That Support Us (1941), examined the relationship of soil properties to historical developments. Many of his writings concerned public policy in soils and agriculture, but others ranged more widely, such as the Scientific Monthly series "The Scientist and Social Policy in the Democratic State." (1942). After World War II, Kellogg traveled, studied, wrote, and spoke on world soil resources. He made tropical soils something of a specialty. His was one of only a few voices advising caution during the headlong exportation of Western agricultural technology. In Kellogg's opinion, Western agriculturalists should not recommend abandonment of traditional systems such as shifting cultivation, grazing, and burning until the supporting systems for a higher level of technology are built

King	2020	Senior Conservationist Frances Elizabeth King (99) of Lincoln, Nebraska passed away December 30, 2020, one day short of her 100th birthday. She was born around suppertime on a cold evening at her paternal grandparents' home in Plains, Kansas on December 31, 1920. When Frances was eleven, the King family moved to Alliance, Nebraska. Frances blossomed into a responsible and industrious young woman who took her first job at fifteen ironing shirts for three dollars a week. She attended Alliance High School and excelled in gymnastics, yet she was barred from state-wide competitions due to the discrimination against African American athletes at that time. She graduated from high school in 1939. Seven days before her nineteenth birthday, Frances married her high school sweetheart, bearing her first child, Robert Eugene, followed by Barbara Frances two year later. The family left Alliance and settled in Denver, Colorado where Frances worked and raised her children. Unfortunately, after ten years, her marriage ended in divorce. A five-year second marriage followed. Her third marriage, which also ended in divorce after three years, produced her daughter Annette Louise. Unlucky in love, Frances focused her life on raising her children, developing her skills to advance her career with the Federal Government, and living her Christian faith through stewardship. In 1969, Frances moved to Lincoln to care for her ailing parents. Upon their passing, Frances left her job at the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) to relocate to New Orleans, Louisiana in 1972 to work for the National Finance Center. She remained in New Orleans for six years, during which time she developed a taste for soft-shelled crab, gumbo, and down-home, southern gospel music. However, with her children married or away at college, Frances longed for the familiarity of Lincoln and old friends, so in 1978 she returned to the Star City where she remained these past forty-two years. Frances enjoyed a happy, busy, and fulfilled life, rich in good friends and family. A member of Mount Zion Baptist Church since she returned to Lincoln, Frances served as Sunday School Superintendent for nine years, treasurer for twenty years, and Trustee. She retired from SCS in 1988. For the past 33 years, Frances made a home with her daughter Annette and grandson, Lathan Murrell. Besides Lathan, Frances was also the beloved grandmother of Christopher Lewis, Donnis (Cox) Hurd, and Ronneka Cox. Kuenstler	2026	Rita Kaye Perrine Kuenstler (76) of Santa Rosa Beach, Florida, passed away April 20, 2026, at her home. Rita was the wife of ARCSE Florida State Representative and former South Region Vice President William (Bill) Kuenstler. Rita was born June 7, 1949, in Oblong, Illinois, to Howard Dorsey Perrine and Hazel (Baker) Perrine. She married Bill on June 19, 1971, at Holy Cross Church in Wendelin, Illinois. Rita attended Eastern Illinois University in Charleston, Illinois, and graduated with a Bachelor of Science degree in Education (with a botany/biology emphasis) in 1971. She earned a master’s degree in science education from the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign in 1974. It is often said that marriage is a partnership, and Rita was a true partner to Bill throughout their almost 55 years of marriage. She supported him by having many careers throughout those years, finding different jobs at all the locations to which Bill was assigned in his career with USDA - Soil Conservation Service (which became the Natural Resources Conservation Service). She attended graduate school while Bill was in Decatur, Illinois and Eureka, Illinois; in Jackson, Kentucky, she worked and taught at Lees College; in Macomb, Illinois, she sold real estate; in Gainesville, Florida, she worked at a florist shop, then ran her own business of leasing and maintaining indoor plants for restaurants and other businesses; in Wilmington, Delaware. The most important role of her life was becoming a mother when Jackie was born. In Fort Collins, Colorado, she worked at a plant nursery; and in Arlington, TX, she worked at a plant nursery, and volunteered untold hours at Jackie's schools. Rita never complained about all those moves. She was always willing to move to a new town, sometimes halfway across the country, and happily adapt to a new place, and a new set of friends. Rita's final home was in Florida, close to the beaches that she loved. Her dream of having a house at the beach began in 1985, when Bill and Rita lived in Gainesville, and visited the beaches on the east coast of Florida. After moving to Texas in 1997, they started taking vacations to the white, sandy beaches in the Florida Panhandle. Even though retirement was many years away, she knew that this was where she wanted to retire. After several visits to different locations between Destin and Panama City, she finally found the perfect spot in Santa Rosa Beach. She enjoyed walking the beaches and learning about the new plants around her new home. Those of you who knew her, knew she was passionate about her progressive political views. In her memory, we know she would want everyone to support those people and candidates in their communities who are championing human rights and human dignity. Rita’s survivors include her husband, Bill, and her daughter, Jacqueline. Rita wanted to be cremated and did not want any services.

Nelson	2012	Honorary Member and Senior Conservationist Vern R. Nelson (92) of Olympia, Washington, passed away August 30, 2012. He was born in Maddock, North Dakota. Vern thought about what he wanted to do professionally after the dust storms hit his family's farm. He saw what SCS had done to help stop some of the dust storms, including strip cropping, developing springs on the various farms, and planting shelter belts. He always thought at that time that it would be nice to have a job in the conservation field. In 1946 he, his wife, and his daughter moved to Washington. He started working for SCS in Olympia in February, 1949. After several years he realized that to advance he needed a college education. So at the age of 32 he started college at WSU, a well-known agronomy college at the time. At 36 he was the first in his family to get a college degree, Bachelor of Science Degree in Agronomy. His first position was in Olympia. Then he served as a District Conservationist in Shelton, Pomeroy, and Renton, WA. Harley was born in Caldwell, Idaho on September 8, 1946, to Dwight and Ethel Noe. He and his family moved from Caldwell to Parma, Idaho, when he was in the 6th grade. Growing up, Harley loved spending time at his grandpa and grandma Shields' farm in Wilder, Idaho. He loved helping his grandpa, playing with their dog and learning to drive a tractor. Harley went to Parma High School, where he was student body president, and graduated in 1964. He went on to study Soil Science at the University of Idaho in Moscow, Idaho where he graduated in 1969. Harley met his wife, Terri, while she was attending Boise State College. They married in Pocatello on May 1st, 1971. After graduation, he went to work for the USDA-Soil Conservation Service (SCS), first working in the Payette, Idaho, field office and then the Rigby, Idaho, office. During the Teton Dam collapse he was the soil survey party leader at the Rexburg field office and then became a party leader at the SCS office in Mountain Home, Idaho. He worked at the SCS state office in Boise until he retired in 2002. After Harley retired from the SCS, he went to work with several former coworkers doing ground water monitoring and soil analysis. Several years later he and his friend, Mark Johnson, started their own consulting business, Natural Resource Solutions. When Mark passed away, Harley continued the business on his own and later partnered with his brother-in-law, Mike Raymond. He and Mike were in business together until 2023, when Harley's health no longer allowed him to work. Mike continued to do field work, while Harley managed the administrative side of the business. He and Mike both decided to retire at the end of 2023. In 1970 he joined the National Guard unit in Emmett. He attended basic training in Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri and in Fort Knox, Kentucky. His early days in the guard he served as a vehicle wheel mechanic. In his later years, he and his friend Richard began running the unit's mess section and won several awards for their excellent cooking. Harley retired from the guard after 22 years. After retiring from the guard, he and Richard used their talents to start Anytime Anyplace Catering, which operated for several years. In addition to all his work and guard duties, Harley loved racing cars. He drag-raced for many years throughout much of the Western United States. He was a favorite at the tracks and knew more about repairing and racing cars than most anyone he encountered. In 2019 he was diagnosed with Myelodysplastic Anemia. He was in treatment for several years, but the medications and procedures he received were not successful. He spent much of his last two years in and out of the hospital and fought until he could not fight any longer. Harley is survived by Terri, his wife of 53 years; his daughters Vicki and Stephanie; grandsons Remington and Jeremiah; sister Lorna Cottier and many cousins, nephews, nieces and friends who all loved him very much.

Rasmussen	2020	Senior Conservationist Jack J. Rasmussen (96) of Spokane Washington passed away June 27, 2020 just 12 days after his wife of LaRee C. Rasmussen (94) passed away on June 15, 2020. LaRee was born near Richfield, Utah to Parley and Iona Shelton Christensen. Jack was born in Monticello, Utah, raised in Ephraim to John "Jack" and Bertha Colby Rasmussen. Both were blessed with close-knit, loving families who knew sorrow early, as LaRee's father died when she was seventeen, and Jack's father died when Jack was only thirteen. After high school, Jack helped his older brother Thad run a cafe in Delta, Utah. Everything changed December 7, 1941 when Pearl Harbor was bombed. Jack went to the recruiter the next day and in January 1942 started four years' service in the 3rd Division of the Marine Corps. He was in the first group of Marines ever trained at Camp Pendleton. Jack was involved in military action on the islands of Bougainville, Guadalcanal, and the battles of Guam and Iwo Jima, where he was wounded. He finished his tour of duty as a Drill Instructor back at Camp Pendleton. Meanwhile, LaRee finished high school and attended one year at the University of Utah. Her cousins from Ephraim introduced her to the handsome Marine. They courted and finally married on September 1, 1948. As a result of her writing a winning essay, Jack and LaRee were married on a radio show in Hollywood and got gifts and a dream honeymoon. Jack finished his degree in Soil Science at Utah State Agricultural College (now Utah State University) and started work in Bellingham, Washington for the USDA-Soil Conservation Service in 1949. He retired in 1982 as State Soil Scientist in Spokane. Daughter Terese and son Thad were born in Bellingham, Washington. Sorrow struck again when their newborn baby was severely brain-damaged by RH blood incompatibility just a few days after birth. Despite many hospitalizations, he lived almost three years. Jack's work took him to Prosser and Toppenish, Washington and finally a big promotion to Spokane. He completed soil surveys of Whatcom County, Benton County, and most of Yakima County. LaRee resumed her college studies while in Prosser, earning an Associate of Arts degree from Columbia Basin College, then finished a Bachelor's degree in English and Elementary Education. Continuing on, she received a Master's degree in Education. She worked as a reading specialist for Nine Mile Falls School District and Spokane School District. Jack and LaRee were life-long members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and Jack where he held leadership positions. This April, Terese was finally able to move her parents to the Tri-Cities. They are survived by daughter Terese (Roger) Pratt, grandchildren Jonathan (Julie) Pratt and Jennifer (Richard) Pruiett of Kennewick, Washington, Rachel (David) Ritchey of San Jose California, Kristen (Carlos) Canalessi of Sandy, Utah; and grandchildren Sarah, Sam, Michael, Amilyn, Cielo, Rey, and Jack.

Richards	2024	Life Member William J. “Bill” Richards (93) of Circleville, Ohio, passed away peacefully in his home on November 12, 2024. He will always be remembered as an innovator and pioneer in conservation farming. He believed that every producer has the duty to use the best available technology to protect soil, water, and other natural resources, and that society has the obligation to base its environmental decisions on good science. Bill was born on October 19, 1931, to Elmon Eben Richards and Mabel Haynes Richards. After earning a degree in agricultural economics from the Ohio State University, Bill set to work to grow a successful, diversified family farming operation, together with his wife and three sons. He was selected as U.S. Jaycees Outstanding Young Farmer of America in 1967. He also was one of the founders of Premium Agricultural Commodities, a purchasing and marketing co-op that became a model in the industry for sharing ideas and providing technology for farmers and business leaders. Bill became a progressive, dynamic manager in agribusiness and government over the course of his illustrious career. As an active member in agriculture, Bill was a past president or participant in many farm organizations, including: National Outstanding Farmers of America, Farm Foundation Bennett Roundtable, Top Farmers of Ohio, National Association of Conservation Districts, National Corn Growers Association, American and Ohio Soybean Association, American Farm Bureau, the Soil and Water Conservation Society, Alpha Gamma Rho, and Premium Agricultural Commodities. Locally, he was a lifelong member of Circleville Rotary and the Circleville Presbyterian Church. While his sons tended the farm, Bill served as the Chief of the USDA- Soil Conservation Service from 1990 to 1993, during which he guided the agency under the environmental requirements of the 1985 and 1990 farm legislation, in areas of soil erosion control, wetlands protection, and water management. He led cooperative efforts to bring the agricultural industry, government, and the farm media together for a common purpose. After his time at the USDA, Bill enjoyed teaching others about conservation agriculture as a visiting lecturer and spokesperson. Bill spoke to a wide range of audiences: farm, university, commodity, agrifinance, chemical and machinery industries, environmental organizations, and federal and state agencies. He was a contributing writer to Farm Journal, Top Producer, and monthly articles in Agrifinance, and he mentored foreign students in an Ohio State University exchange program. He participated in numerous short courses and seminars at Ohio State and Purdue and attended Harvard University’s agri-business executive education seminars. His contribution to agriculture lives on in the seeds of knowledge and curiosity that he sowed for farmers across the country. With all the honors and accomplishments of his storied life, the best thing Bill ever did was marry Grace Stevenson Richards. In her, he found a true partner and best friend, and together, they were always listening and learning. He grew up in the ranch home he lived in for the rest of his life. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in Animal Husbandry from Texas Tech University. He was a member of Phi Delta Theta fraternity and kept up many of those relationships all his life. When he graduated, he returned home, the place he treasured most. His love of Clay County branded everything he did. His heart for the land, people, and conservation of natural resources was rooted deeply, just as his family's history was. That history began in Clay County in 1891, when his great-grandfather Samuel Scaling purchased land here, and his Lazy B brand still marks Wilson's Hereford cattle. Wilson's humble, hard-working, and kind-hearted nature fueled everything he did, whether he was serving as Parade Marshall for Clay County Pioneer Reunion or as Chief of the USDA-Soil Conservation Service in Washington, DC, under Presidents Reagan and George H.W. Bush. He didn't just serve, he led in county, state, and national organizations. He was precinct 3 County Commissioner from 1993 to 2008. He was a Governor-appointed member of the Conservation Advisory Council in Austin, Texas, and was instrumental in many conservation societies from the Little Wichita Soil and Water Conservation District to the Region B Water Planning Commission. Wilson's slogan in all his conservation efforts was "take care of what takes care of you." But he took care of more than that. He loved young people and was a big supporter of FFA, 4-H, Boy Scouts and others. He helped secure scholarships for graduating seniors. As a widower, Wilson "added to his family" on November 7, 2009, with a late-in-life marriage to a dear, lifelong friend, Ann Adams. Together they carried on Wilson's enthusiastic support of Clay County. One of Wilson's favorite leadership positions was with the North Texas Rehabilitation Center (NTRC) in Wichita Falls where he began serving in l975. He was Trail Boss for many years over its Livestock and Merchandise Auction. He and Ann both served on its board, and he was a lifetime director of both the Rehab Center Operating Board and its Foundation Board. Ranches who compete in the NTRC's main fundraiser, the Texas Ranch Roundup, voted to give Wilson the coveted Trailblazer Award. In addition, he was recognized as Individual of the Year by the Clay County Chamber of Commerce. "Giving back" motivated Wilson, whether serving in his church (Trinity Episcopal) or in the United States Army Reserve from 1961 to 69. He continued to support the military through his involvement in the "Dove Salute" for enlisted men and women at Sheppard Air Force Base. He appreciated and supported all who worked to help others, including area volunteer fire fighters. He is survived by his wife, Ann, and her son, Duncan Arnhold of Florida; his sister, Sally Scaling Gray of Wichita Falls; Scott Schroeder of Scaling Ranch in Clay County; and many beloved cousins, relatives and friends.

Sloan	2004	Donald E. Sloan (81) of Clearwater, Florida passed away on March 2, 2004. He formerly lived in Grantsburg, Indiana and was a native of English Indiana. Mr. Sloan was retired from the USDA Soil Conservation Service in the late 1970’s. Other than a short training period in Corydon, Indiana, Don spent his entire career as the District Conservationist in English (Crawford County), Indiana where he and the local District Supervisors and the local Extension Agent developed a soil conservation and rural development program that was the envy of many. But through it all Don was always in the background teaching, encouraging and giving others the credit. During his thirty-year tenure in the county the gully ravaged hillsides turned green with trees, pastures and contoured row crops set off by farm ponds, grassed waterways and spring developments. The Lincoln Hills Resource Conservation and Development (the first in the nation) was one product of his and other local leaders' farsightedness. Although he was asked to move to more responsible positions of leadership, he always said his job was to help care for the hills of Crawford County. Another of his unassuming accomplishments was that many conservationists of today passed though his office as trainees and all became members of the Soil and Water Conservation Society through his gentle leadership. At least five or six are very active members of the Hoosier Chapter today. His wife, Aledia, niece Rita Wolfinger and nephew David Sloan survive him. He was a member of the Grantsburg Community Church, the First Christian Church in Clearwater, the Masonic Lodge and was a forestry graduate of Purdue University.

Stamatel	2023	Senior Conservationist and Life ARCSE Member Henry S. Stamatel (99) of Camillus, New York, passed away May 17. 2023, at home, after a brief illness. Born 100 years ago in Stamford, Connecticut, his parents were immigrants from southeast Poland and their lives were extremely modest. By 1930, his Uncle Steven had taken him in, and he lived with Uncle Steven's family, while his mother worked as a domestic in nearby Rye, New York. In the 1930s, Henry, his widowed mother, and sister moved into subsidized housing in downtown Stamford. By 1941, Henry was an Eagle Scout, ready to graduate from Stamford High School and go to work in a factory to support his family, but then the Japanese Air Force bombed Pearl Harbor and he joined the military. Henry was trained to be a navigator of a B-29 in the Army Air Corps. As a father, he did not readily share his memories of the war until he was in his 80s when told his adult children, "I flew over the Empire three times." Henry took part in the bombing of the oil reserves at Akita, Japan, the longest bombing raid ever attempted by the 20th Air Force. He remembered that this mission began with the plane positioned for takeoff at the end of the runway while a fuel truck drove out to top off the B-29's tanks one final time. A chaplain was riding in the front seat of the truck. The mission was an American success, and Henry and his fellow aviators were returning to Guam when the radioman announced that Hirohito had surrendered. Weeks later, he boarded a troop ship and made his way through the Panama Canal to Fairfield Court in Stamford. Henry's military service paid for his education at the University of Connecticut and Yale University, where he earned civil engineering degrees. He married Mary Pat Fraser in 1954 and began a family immediately. Henry worked as an engineer for the USDA-Soil Conservation Service for his entire working life, helping municipalities manage flooding and create reservoirs for drinking water. He retired in 1986 as State Conservation Engineer. In later years, he was magnanimous about the change in philosophy that undammed many American rivers. A good friend who was also his boss, Bob Addison, took Henry with him when he moved from New Hampshire to New York in 1971. In Camillus, he mounted a tall rotating antenna on the roof of his home so he could watch hockey night in Canada on Saturdays. He was a steady parishioner at St. Joseph's Church in Camillus, where he lived with his family in the same house until his passing. Henry was a dedicated naturalist who regularly took his five children and devoted wife camping in the White Mountains of New Hampshire and the Adirondacks of New York. He once nailed a fish to a log and then hid, camera in hand, until a raccoon showed up. Henry was an early Nordic skier when equipment had to be ordered directly from Norway! In retirement, he and Pat enjoyed winters in their Airstream trailer in the citrus groves of Florida for a time, where he cultivated bananas, blood oranges, and pink grapefruits. Henry was predeceased by his wife of 56 years, Mary Pat, whom he nursed through her final days with grace and resolve. Surviving are his five children, Thomas (Tracey), Stanley (Helen), Mary (Mark), Elizabeth (Ray), and Lawrence (Viola); and seven wonderful grandchildren, Savanna, Brendan, Lauren, Andrew, Patrick, Henry, and Theo.

Thomas	2026	Life Member Edward (Ed) Earl Thomas (94) of Bryan, Texas, passed away peacefully on June 30, 2026. Ed was born on January 14, 1932, in Runningwater, Hale County, Texas, to Findley Hubert Thomas and Inez Hill Thomas. In September 1949, Ed entered Texas A&M College. Because of the large number of World War II veterans enrolled at the college, his freshman class was housed at the A&M Annex (now the RELLIS Campus). During his college years he worked as a waiter in Duncan Dining Hall and eventually became Doorman his senior year. He played the clarinet in the Fightin' Texas Aggie Band and earned a varsity letter as a high jumper on the Southwest Conference Championship Track Team in 1953. His lifelong devotion to Texas A&M began during those years and remained one of the defining passions of his life. After receiving his Bachelor of Science degree in Agricultural Education, Ed accepted a commission as a Second Lieutenant in the United States Army while beginning his career with the USDA-Soil Conservation Service (SCS). Entering active duty in June 1954, he trained at Fort Eustis, Virginia, served sixteen months in Pusan, Korea, and completed his service at Camp Leroy Johnson in New Orleans before receiving an honorable discharge as a 1st Lieutenant in June 1956. On June 16, 1956, Ed married Mary Esther Farlow, the love of his life in Fort Worth, Texas. Following military service, Ed resumed his career with SCS, beginning in Wellington and Wheeler, Texas, before serving as District Conservationist in Jayton and Morton, Texas. His leadership abilities soon led to appointments as Area Conservationist in Pecos, Texas and Harlingen, Texas, Assistant State Conservationist in Temple, Texas, Deputy State Conservationist in Nashville, Tennessee, and in 1972, State Conservationist of Texas. In 1975 he was appointed Assistant Administrator at SCS National Headquarters in Washington, D.C., where he later served as Assistant Chief responsible for the Southern States, Puerto Rico, and the U.S. Virgin Islands. During his distinguished federal career, he also accepted temporary international assignments with the Food and Agriculture Organization and other conservation programs in Rome, Peru, Egypt, South Africa, and Lesotho. Ed attended Harvard University's Kennedy School of Government in 1976, graduated from the Federal Executive Institute in Charlottesville, Virginia, in 1977, and in 1979 became a Charter Member of the Federal Government's Senior Executive Service. During his final year with the Soil Conservation Service, he served as Deputy Chief of Technology before retiring in 1987 after more than three decades of distinguished public service. Retirement brought Ed and Mary back home to Texas and they chose to live in Bryan near the university they loved so dearly! Retirement gave him more opportunities to serve others. A dedicated Christian, Ed was a member of the A&M United Methodist Church but for 37 years was a devoted member of First United Methodist Church of Bryan and held numerous church leadership positions. He volunteered for many years as an official at Texas A&M track meets, audited university courses—including turfgrass management—and remained an enthusiastic supporter of Aggie athletics, faithfully attending football, baseball, and basketball games with Mary for more than twenty-five years. One of Ed's greatest joys was restoring antique horse-drawn farm equipment. What began as a hobby became a backyard miniature museum where he carefully restored mule-drawn implements and proudly shared them with visitors, preserving an important part of America's agricultural heritage. He is survived by his devoted wife, Mary Esther Thomas; his sons Edward Earl Thomas (Penelope Sue "Penny") of College Station; James W. "Bill" Thomas (Donna) of Corpus Christi, Texas, and Lee Merrill, surviving spouse of Ed's predeceased daughter, Susan Elizabeth; grandchildren Julia (Clint) Bell, Sarah (Bryan) Jody, Laura Thomas, Brice (Ashleigh) Thomas, Kyle Thomas, Ryan Thomas, Karen (John) Griffin, Bryan (Chandler) Merrill and Ellen (Stephen) Reynolds; and eleven great-grandchildren.
